DESCRIPTION

Hotel Capomulini Historical House near the beach of Acireale - Catania

Hotel Capomulini Dimora Storica near the beach in Acireale is ideal if you want to reach Port of Catania and Ionian Sea in less than a quarter-hour drive. This beach inn is 14.1 km from Etna and 39.3 km from Catania Beach. According to the historian Diodorus Siculus, it was originally built by the Greeks in 7 B.C. and used as a spa fed by sulfurous waters from the volcano Etna. Later the Romans transformed it first into a Mill and then into a Tannery. And it was this building used as a mill that gave rise to the streets of the Mills that continued to the slopes of Etna and gave its name to the charming village of Capomulini. Now after careful renovation the Hotel Capomulini is born. Located in the bay of Capomulini, a small hamlet of Acireale, a locality rich in art with its 100 bell towers of rigorous Baroque style and also known for the most beautiful carnival in Sicily, it offers the opportunity to choose, at all times of the year, moments of refinement, where the Homeric stacks of Acitrezza and the lush Timpa of Acireale provide the backdrop. Hotel Capomulini has 12 rooms spread over the two floors of the main building, 7 rooms on the second floor and 5 attics on the second floor. A short distance from the main building, the hotel has another 6 rooms: 4 double rooms and 2 apartments that overlook the beautiful Capomulini seafront. All rooms are cared for in every detail and equipped with all comforts: air conditioning, satellite TV, mini bar, hairdryer, telephone, free wifi. Spacious and comfortable, they refer to the historical style of the building, with vaults, exposed stone, wooden beam ceilings, rustic furniture and warm colors according to the typical local style. On the cliff of the seafront during the summer season is set up a solarium that during the day is equipped with deckchairs and umbrellas and in the evening turns into an enchanting and romantic piano bar to spend unforgettable and romantic musical evenings with the spectacular view of the sea and stars. The hotel is equipped with a multifunctional conference room for meetings, with auditorium or meeting table, equipped with modern multimedia tools and Internet connection....
